

The first feature is the hover one. If you hover over the circles you will notice a subtle opacity change.

The second feature is to turn a task off. If you click on a circle then the task next to it is turned off.

The third one is the animation of the plus sign when you click it.

This project was meant to be a to-do list website where you can turn off tasks. I did this because everytime I see the list of the things I need to do I get overwhelmed. This makes paying attention easy. The plus sign is suppose to add items, but I didn't know how to do it (and I have a final this week).